

WALNUT COVE POA

"Garden Vision"

See it, Plant it, Water it. Trust it to Grow!!!

Three years ago, I was given the honor and blessing to serve this community as a Board member. I am so grateful for this opportunity and it has truly enriched my life. In the beginning, the vision for our community.... Create a community that supports and appreciates our residents. Community effort and involvement all working together to make Walnut Cove a place we are proud to call our home.

Recently, I was cleaning out my cabinets. I found my journals from several years back. I realized the words I wrote and dreamed for our community are happening!! I have a quote that says "We create our tomorrow by what we dream today!"

So the challenge, join us in this dream for our community!!!!!!!!!! Show up for each other, get involved, join the many groups or even create new ones to serve each other. Lets keep the momentum going and join us in this dream!!!! We want to get to know you!!!! Volunteer, attend the meetings and again use your gifts to serve!!!! Be an active part of our community.

Spring is here!!!! Time to plant the new seeds, water, give them sunshine and light!!!! The growth will only continue with our action. I believe in our community and I love watching it come into full bloom!!! Our collective dreams are powerful and will become our reality!!! Our beautiful garden... So again, "We create our tomorrow by what we dream today!" I am seeing Walnut Cove as our beautiful garden. I am certain it will be in full bloom before we know it.

Happy Spring and Blessings!!!!

Early Spring GARDENING

Spring is right around the corner! Here are a few tips to give you a head start:

- It's time to clean up the garden and remove all debris and dead plants
- Remove weeds—making sure to get the roots so they will not grow back!
- Sharpen your garden tools if needed and get your mower back in shape
- Check outside plants and trees for animal damage
- Prune trees and shrubs, both ornamentals and fruit so they'll grow anew in spring.
- Check evergreens for signs of desiccation
- Use compost or manure to add moisture back into the soil
- Use an acid-type rhododendron fertilizer to feed evergreens, conifers, rhododendrons, azaleas & camellias
- Use an all-purpose fertilizer to feed roses and other deciduous trees and shrubs. If using dry-type fertilizers, water them in thoroughly
- Replace mulch as needed—1 to 3 inches of mulch helps prevent weeds and diseases
- Start to rejuvenate annual flower beds
- Start seeds of cool-season vegetables and flowers
- Apply dormant oil fruit spray
- Take notes and buy some shrubs and trees that you would like to see in your winter garden next season

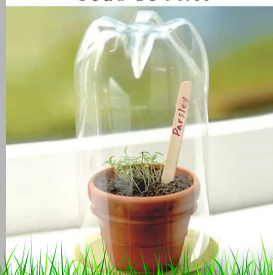

Use plastic forks to keep pets and animals from destroying your garden.

Pinch the tips of your herbs to encourage beautiful and healthy leaves!

Make a mini greenhouse with a recycled, plastic soda bottle.

Construct a dry creek bed to break up and create visual interest in the yard
